1 ABOUT SUUNTO GUIDING STAR

A clear Nordic winter night with Polaris steady to the north, the guide for explorers since ancient times, has been the inspiration for the first Suunto jewel. The Suunto Guiding Star is a functional piece of jewelry with clean lines and two faces: on the front is a real compass with Polaris in the north, and on the back stars of the Nordic sky.

This limited edition jewel made of sterling silver was designed by Finnish jewelry designer Lina Simons and crafted in Finland in cooperation between Suunto and Kalevala Jewelry, both founded in Finland in the 1930s.

A pioneer of compasses, Suunto has shown direction in the outdoors since 1936. Besides accuracy and reliability, Suunto products are known for their aesthetic appeal. The Suunto Guiding Star compass pendant is building on this tradition.

2 CARE AND HANDLING

Silver naturally tarnishes over time. Remove tarnishing with a jewelry polishing cloth, then rinse well to protect clothing from stains.

Skin creams, perfumes, insect repellents and other chemicals contribute to tarnishing and damage the compass. Do not apply such products while wearing the jewelry.

Do not use silver polish liquids. Protect the jewelry from contact with liquids containing alcohol. Handle with care. Knocking or dropping may damage the compass and deform the silver.

A bubble may appear in the compass liquid at low temperatures and at high altitude. The bubble disappears when you return to normal conditions.
